MR. FRED G. MORRIS

And New Albany Girl Meet Their Death in a Watery Grave.

The Horrible Accident Occurred in Slate Creek.

A deep gloom hovered over our city Thursday afternoon when the heart-rending news that Mr. Fred G. Morris, aged 23 years, of this city, and Miss Allene Wayman, of New Albany, Ind., had been drowned while riding in a small boat about a quarter of a mile above the dam at Howards' Mill, in Slate Creek. The ill-fated couple were accompanied in the boat when it overturned in some unaccountable manner by Mr. Robert Stone, one of the proprietors of the Mt. Sterling Garage, and Miss Florence Dawson, also of New Albany, and it was only by expert swimming and wonderful endurance that Mr. Stone was enabled to save the life of his companion. Both Mr. Morris and Mr. Stone were expert swimmers, and it would have been an easy matter for Mr. Morris to have saved himself but, like the brave boy that he was, he chose to perish rather than not save the life of his companion.

Immediately after the tragedy automobiles were rushed to the scene and the lifeless bodies were soon rescued and brought to this city and prepared for burial. Relatives of Miss Wayman arrived here Friday and her body was taken to New Albany for burial, while her surviving companion was rushed to a hospital in Lexington, where she lies in a critical condition.

The funeral of Mr. Morris was held at the grave in Machpelah Cemetery, Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. H. D. Clark.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Martha Morris, who was in Missouri at the time of his death, and who arrived here Friday night on the late train, which was held 32 minutes in Louisville, in order to allow her to make connection. One sister, Miss Louise, and one brother, Mr. Roy L. Morris, also survive, all of whom have the deepest heart-felt sympathy of this entire community in the loss of their loved one.

Fred Morris was proprietor of the Morris' Cafe, and was a young man of many sterling qualities.

To know him was to like him and how few of us didn't know Fred. He was always courteous and gentlemanly and had a faculty for making friends who were numbered only by his acquaintances. If an enemy he had I never heard of him and the thought of the tragic death of Fred Morris will cause many a heart throb in years to come.

Doubly sad, that a young man just in the springtime of life, just when all the world seems at its sweetest ebb, should be dashed to eternity without a moment's warning. He was a boy of whom it can be truthfully said: "None knew thee but to love thee, nor named thee, but to praise."

Old Mt. Sterling won't seem the same without Fred Morris, a big hearted, congenial soul, if one ever lived, and a better or truer friend one never had. Though faults he had, who of us have not our faults, and his virtues, I am sure, far outweighed his faults.

The best and truest friend I ever had is no more, but his memory will always linger and his bright and genial disposition will never be forgotten by his boyhood friends and companions. And now, old comrade, for the last time, we say "Good-bye."

"We dropped a tear on the lone bier, And thought of a day far, or near When the crimson streak, on the pallid cheek, Speaks life forever for the lowly and the meek."

COUNTY CLERK

Declines Petition of the Independent Candidates.

Does So Upon Advice of Attorney General.

Mr. J. A. Williams of the Aaron's Run neighborhood recently filed a petition before County Court Clerk Keller Greene, asking that his name be placed upon the ballot as an Independent Candidate for Magistrate in that district against Col. W. D. Henry, the Democratic nominee and Mr. John M. Adams, of the Jeffersonville precinct, filed a similar petition to the petition subsequently withdrew their names, which only left nineteen petitioners when the law requires twenty and the Williams petition was said to have been defective in several particulars, but contained the requisite number of petitioners. We are informed the County Clerk went to Frankfort and submitted the questions involved to the Attorney General and upon his advice declined to place either name upon the ballot. This ruling leaves the Democratic nominee without opposition in these districts.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left in an automobile for Winchester from which point they went to Cincinnati where they remained until Saturday night when they returned to this city where they will make their home at the residence of the groom on the Maysville pike. The bride was one of the graduates at the Mt. Sterling High School last year and is a beautiful and charming young girl with many admiring friends. The groom is the youngest son of Mr. John C. Sells Samuels Avenue Property.

Mr. Leslie McCormick Saturday afternoon sold to Percy D. Bryan, of this city, his handsome two-story frame residence, located on Samuels avenue, for a private consideration.

Possession will be given April 1, 1914. The residence will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Percy D. Bryan. Mr. McCormick will break dirt immediately for a new residence just across the street from the one he sold.

Robbers at Winchester.

The safe in the office of the Winchester Roller Mills Co., was broken into on Friday night, and about $130 taken from it. The robbers gained entrance from the rear by breaking in through two fire doors, having first gone to Burke's blacksmith shop on Washington street, and secured the necessary tools.

After prying open the doors at the rear of the office they knocked the combination knob off the safe with a sledge hammer, and then punched the entire lock through, so that it fell inside the safe. All that remained then to be done was to pull open the doors. The robbers secured $113.04 belonging to the Milling Company, and about $15 which Mr. McEldowney had put in the safe for the Christian church.

Starting An Apple Orchard.

The site for an orchard should not be low or level but it should be located on land that is somewhat rolling so as to provide good air drainage. Care must be taken not to plant the trees on too steep a hillside, because of the difficulties in spraying, tilling and harvesting. Broad, flat bottom lands above a river are often good, because the river draws the frost and the land is very easily worked.

The question of exposure is of prime importance in the planting of trees. In general, Northern and Eastern slopes are more fertile than Southern or Western slopes. A Northern or Eastern slope is to be preferred in this region because such exposure aids in holding back the buds in the spring when there is danger of damage by freezing. Where early ripening fruits are wanted it is probably better to plant on land with a Southern exposure. If there happens to be a river flowing close by, advantage should be taken of the slope facing it regardless of the way the land lies, unless it is altogether too steep. The river will serve to ward off the frost.

Apples thrive on a great variety of soils, but in general they seem to do best on well drained clay loam. Any land that will grow good crops of corn or Irish potatoes is considered fit for an orchard provided the location is such that the land will drain readily. Trees cannot thrive in thin, badly worn soil or where an impervious subsoil is near the surface. Such a soil is liable to hold too much moisture, thereby causing the trees to be stunted and weakly. If it is necessary to plant an orchard in a soil that holds too much moisture, provision should be made for artificial drainage before the trees are planted. Tile is the most satisfactory drainage to install, even if the initial cost is a little high. Brush and stone drains are unsatisfactory because they have to be taken up and placed in order too often in order to keep them in good working condition.

Soil containing abundant plant food should be selected for the orchard so as to insure a vigorous and hardy growth from the very start. It is poor practice to crop land for several years, thereby exhausting the soil of the plant food, and then plant it, to fruit trees expecting them to care for themselves. Kentucky has many orchards started in just this manner and in nearly every case they have failed. It is best to begin building up the soil one or two years before planting, by sowing some leguminous crop and turning it so as to supply plenty of humus and moisture to the trees. Young growing trees demand a large amount of nitrogen and moisture in order to make a thrifty growth, and a little work in building up a soil will be well repaid in a short time.

Before locating an orchard for commercial purposes it is well to go into a community where apples are already being grown commercially, because the markets in such a region are already well established. The fact that there are no orchards in a region should not prevent one from going into the fruit growing business provided he has the proper conditions. For an orchard to be successful it should be located where there is a good local market, or where the transportation facilities are good. Plant as close to a railroad as possible so as to avoid long hauls and danger of bruising the fruit before it reaches the market. There are many fine fruit locations in Kentucky, close to good markets and within easy hauling distance of the railroads. The land in many cases can be bought very cheap and with a little time and work it can be made very valuable for orchard purposes.

Young Women and Carpentry.

A number of young women in Toledo are taking lessons in the carpentry department of the city's Manual Training School. A class of this kind is rather unusual, but lessons in carpentry will do the young women no harm, and the knowledge obtained is more than likely to "come in handy."

Presumably these women students at Toledo are not endeavoring to qualify themselves for membership in the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, or for earning a living by building houses or working at repair jobs. As a matter of fact, a little knowledge and experience in the carpentry line would be a good thing for the great majority of the American people.

There are men in plenty who cannot make a decent job of driving a nail and who cannot essay the performance of hammering half a dozen tacks without emerging from the engagement with a damaged finger or thumb. There are those who cannot make a saw follow a straight line for a matter of three or four inches while sawing a board, and who cannot hit twice in the same place with an ax or hatchet. There are dozens of little trivial jobs around a house which call for a modicum of carpentry skill, but which hardly justify the trouble and the expense of calling in a real carpenter.

If the man of the house, or the woman of the house, for that matter, be possessed of any mechanical knowledge or constructive talent, it will be possible to tide the household over many little annoyances and save many small bills for repairs. A few of the simpler tools of the carpenter's trade should be in every house. It is of greater importance that somebody in the house should know how to use them. It is not always possible to secure the services of a carpenter when they are needed. This means a prolongation of an-noyances and an accumulation of things to worry about.

If these young women of Toledo shall not become artisans they will, at least, acquire some valuable information while pursuing their studies in manual training. If they should never put in practice what they learn, they will still be better off for having learned it—since most carpenters do better work if there is judicious overseeing.—Courier-Journal.

Butter and Eggs And Merchandising

By HOLLAND.

MR. FARMER, do you spend money with mail order houses? Do you send your cash to Chicago or New York while doing a credit business with your local merchant? You do not? Then we congratulate you and beg to say that these words are addressed to the man who does.

You, Mr. Mail Order House Patron, should think a few thoughts before buying another money order or draft payable in Chicago. Think what sort of welcome you would receive if you went to that big Chicago concern with a few pounds of butter or a few dozen eggs! Would the Chicago concern buy your eggs, think you? Would it take your butter and give you in exchange sugar that is sold at such a narrow margin of profit that the weighing must be careful and close or there will be a loss? Hardly.

The mail order house insists on cash—cash in advance. There is no bartering and no credit. It is "Send me your money first if you want my goods."

It will be to your advantage directly and indirectly to spend your real money where you take your butter and eggs.

MAN HAS ABNORMAL MEMORY

Illiterate English Laborer Whose Feats Have Recently Been Causing Much Astonishment.

George Harbottle, a laborer at a Northumberland quarry, possesses a memory which retains an indelible impression of every word which he hears or reads, says the Northwestern Gazette. After once hearing read, or reading himself, half a dozen book pages of any kind of matter, he can repeat them without omitting a single word.

One one occasion a man who knew Harbottle bought a pamphlet of songs from a street singer, and wagered him that he could not, within 20 minutes, learn and correctly repeat all the songs. Harbottle repeated every song without a mistake in 17 minutes. The names of all the licensed houses in Glasgow were read out to him three times and he repeated them correctly in the reverse order in which they were read out. Two men read two different paragraphs from two newspapers simultaneously and Harbottle repeated one paragraph correctly and made only two mistakes in the other—a remarkable feat. His foreman one day showed him a book containing the record of his seven workmates for eight months. It was at the dinner hour and the men were all sitting in a group. In ten minutes, from memory, Harbottle told each man what he had done and the wages he had earned during each week of the previous eight months.

Being an illiterate man, he can do nothing with figures, but otherwise his abnormal power seems to triumph over the most severe tests to which it can be put.

GETTING THE FACTS STRAIGHT

Statesman's Correction of Statement That Credited Him With Wrestling With the Bear.

"Cy" Cummins, the biggest, tallest and heaviest member of the Maryland legislature, was a guest one night at a "bear supper" given at a club in his county. Bear meat was served and on the stage at the end of the banquet hall there was a tremendous live bear.

Nobody could figure out why the live bear should be there. Speech after speech was made, and joke after joke was sprung. But nobody referred to the large and ferocious animal. At last the toastmaster arose and made these few remarks: "I now introduce to you Mr. Cy Cummins, a member of our state legislature. He is the man who wrestled with the bear which you see now on the platform. He will tell you how he did it."

"Gentlemen," said Cy, lifting his six feet six inches to their ultimate destination, "to say that I wrestled with that bear is to state a sordid and sinister untruth. I never wrestled with a bear in my life. Whenever I turn my attention to one of those things, I step nimbly up behind him, grab him by the ears and kick him to death."—Popular Magazine.

TRY NOT TO SEE THE BLOTS

Good Lesson for All of Us in Small Girl's Plea for the Overlooking of Fault.

A father, on coming home one evening, tired and somewhat dispirited, was approached by his little daughter with her copy-book, which she had just finished writing. It being her first, her young face redened with a beautiful and honest flush, as she was sure of receiving some word of praise and cheer for her hard attempt.

The pages were indeed neatly written, and her father told her how well pleased he was to see how careful she had been. Presently, coming to one page which had two small blots, the little girl laid her hands upon them, and artlessly looking up into her father's face, said: "Papa, don't see blots." Of course he did not, but bent down and planted a kiss on the little forehead and felt thankful for the lesson he had learned.

How precious it would be if, amid all the nameless strifes and discords which so fret and chafe us, we would just lay a finger on the sullied page of human lives and not see the blots. When littleness and meanness and petty oppositions annoy and vex us, if we could only look away from these to some brighter pages.—Selected.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

OUR NOMINEES.

Mr. W. O. Chenault, Sr., our nominee for County Judge, was legally and fairly nominated. This, no one denies, and always having been a loyal party man, is entitled, in all fairness, to the support of his fellow-Democrats.

As a member of one of our oldest and best families, his integrity is unquestioned and being a graduate of Princeton and learned in the law, is admirably equipped for the office he seeks. He promises, if elected, to give especial attention to our turnpikes and to nominate for County Road Engineer the most competent man he can find.

As he needs the office—being a poor man—it goes without saying that he will deeply appreciate any assistance rendered him and believing that as a member of the dominant party in our city, county, State and nation, he would be better enabled to accomplish the greatest good as our County Judge, in his behalf we appeal to all voters of the county, (his fellow-Democrats in particular) to vote and work for him next Tuesday.

Mr. C. K. Oldham, our nominee for Mayor, is a man of large property interests in our city and promises, if elected, to be here at all times to properly discharge his duties. That he will comply with his word in this and every other respect, no one who knows him doubts, and to longer circulate this story, after his positive denial, is to give credence to a known falsehood. Being a man of marked executive ability and fine business qualifications, it is conceded that he would make an admirable Mayor. We need business men in office and as a thoroughly competent man for the place, we recommend him to the consideration of the voters of the city, confidently believing he will be their choice by a pronounced majority.

ABOLISH THE FISCAL COURT

Upon next Tuesday we confidently expect to see the fight for the abolishment of the Fiscal court and the substitution of an efficient county commission, won by a handsome majority. A fight is never won, however, without effort and especially those who have become rich at the expense of the taxpayers, are secretly at work, in an effort to defeat this measure. These enemies of the people are resorting to falsehoods of every character, the most ridiculous of which is that if the Fiscal Court is abolished, the Commissioners will receive $1,000 each a year. As a matter of fact the Magistrates are paid $18.00 a month, or $3.00 each and meet monthly. The Commissioners will likewise meet monthly and under the law will be paid $9.00 a meeting, or $3.00 each.

In order to insure the adoption of this new and approved plan, it is necessary for every believer in good government in Montgomery county, whether he be a Democrat, Republican, Progressive or Independent to vote and work for the adoption of the commission plan, by voting "Yes" upon said question

BECAUSE it is a non-political issue and means the removal of politics from all the business affairs of the county.

BECAUSE such a commission would mean higher efficiency, greater economy and the application of higher principles of business to the fiscal affairs of the county.

BECAUSE the Fiscal Court as now composed of Magistrates cannot, under the present system, do as well as three progressive business men could do under the new, up-to-date commission plan, with all red tape removed.

BECAUSE the old plan is obsolete, intolerable and a proven failure, while the new commission plan is a success everywhere it has been tried. Many whole states have been using the plan, with great success, for years.

BECAUSE the adoption of this plan reduces the cost one-half to the taxpayers in attending to the financial affairs of the county and is absolutely necessary in order for our county to take her rightful place in the forefront of the bluegrass counties of our Commonwealth.

BECAUSE the commission plan gives to every voter of the county an opportunity to choose our financial representatives, who are virtually the trustees of over seven million dollars worth of property.

BECAUSE we should have an intelligent, experienced commission, to build and maintain good roads and administer all the business affairs of the county.

BECAUSE good roads mean happier homes, more beautiful homes and a happier people—mean a greater number of visitors to our county and a higher social relationship; better schools, better scholars, greater attendance and higher education, and reflect credit upon the intelligence of our citizenship.

BECAUSE you who live in the city are as much interested as those who live in the country. Your interests are mutual and your needs identical. Never forget this.

BECAUSE everyone is for this proposition and no one against it is no indication that it will carry. It takes votes. Vote YES and urge your neighbors to vote YES.

The Lexington Tribune has ceased publication. The paper was started July 4th of this year and was a good, newsy sheet and we regret that it was forced to retire.

Remember if you are a resident of Mt. Sterling and have not registered, today, before the County Court Clerk, is your last chance.

Handsome Reception.

The lovely home of Mrs. Lawless Douglas Gatewood was the scene of a charming reception on last Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Blanche Gill, of Illinois.

The pretty home, attractive at all times, was doubly so on this occasion. Yellow and green were the colors used and were most elaborate and effective. Quantities of yellow dahlias, chrysanthemums and southern smilax adorned the reception hall and three large rooms.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Albert Hoffman and in the upper hall Mrs. W. R. Thompson and Mrs. Allen Prewitt presided at the punch table.

The receiving line stood in the parlor, composed of the hostess, Mrs. Gatewood, Mrs. Lutie Jones, Miss Gill, Mrs. T. J. Thomas and Mrs. Mollie Gatewood.

In the dining room the table was beautiful with a cluny centerpiece, a gold basket of yellow chrysanthemums tied with yellow tulle, and yellow shaded candles in silver candlesticks. Other lights in here had pumpkin shades and were all sorts of Halloween emblems.

Mrs. H. G. Hoffman, Mrs. Catlett Everett and Mrs. Charles Anderson served the guests a delicious meat course luncheon, assisted by little Misses Frances Reis, Mary Lawless and Jenmol Gatewood with attractive baskets of mints and almonds.

In the living room Mrs. Roger Gatewood and Mrs. Sidney Johnson served coffee and Mrs. John Spears, Misses Mary Ray Trimble and Susette Johnson pinned appropriate Halloween souvenirs on the guests.

Others who assisted in entertaining were Mrs. Alice Turner, Mrs. Mary Lockridge, Mrs. W. N. Anderson, Mrs. Charles Scott, of Lexington, and Mrs. Walter Anderson.

The music was rendered by Miss Flo Shirley, pianist, and Prof. Rolfe McConnell, violinist.

About 300 guests called during the hours from 3 to 5 and enjoyed the gracious hospitality of Mrs. Gatewood and Mrs. Jones.

The Printing Industry.

The printing industry now ranks sixth in importance, it having advanced from seventh place since the last census. The important industries rank as follows: Meat packing, foundry and machinery, lumber, iron, flour and printing. The annual output of printing is valued at about $737,000,000, an increase of thirty-three and one-third per cent over the amount reported ten years ago. The capital investment in book and job printing is in the neighborhood of $145,000,000, about half of which is in machinery and tools.

Notwithstanding the importance however, of the printer in the commercial world, a recent report indicates that only 415 firms in the United States were rated over $10,000; only 1,715 were rated over $5,000; 5,886 with less than a thousand rating, and 26,000 with no rating at all.

THINKS NEATNESS HALTS AGE

Doctor Asserts There is Much Beneficial Psychic Influence in "Sprucing Up."

Neatness, bathing and massage are recommended to men past middle age who would avoid manifestations of decline. Dr. I. L. Nascher of Boston writes in the New York Medical Journal:

"The improvement in the general appearance has a profound psychic influence, not only directly through the stimulation of the sense of pride in appearance, but indirectly through the flattering comments which it arouses. This important measure is generally neglected by men, yet aside from the beneficial psychic influence, for aesthetic reasons alone the old man should endeavor to make himself appear as attractive as possible. This does not mean that he should resort to the artificial devices that middle aged and elderly women employ to enhance their charms. It does mean that the old man should stimulate the surface circulation by means of baths and massage, remove wrinkles and folds by inunction with animal fats, try to stimulate the growth of hair on the head and remove hair from abnormal situations as the ears, use a cane and wear braces to overcome the tendency to stoop, employ harmless cosmetic measures to improve his appearance, and, above all, observe a sense of neatness in dress. Instead of decrying such a course as vanity it should be encouraged as a laudable effort to maintain a youthful spirit."

Religious.

A letter of September 2 from Miss Moling, San Luis, says: "In spite of all the warnings we have had, we still feel that we should go on with the school. The people here are insisting that we should not close. A committee waited on me Sunday morning and again in the afternoon to show me how unnecessary it is for me to go away. The Mexican government offers protection even in case of intervention, and I am credulous to believe in the promise. Very few Americans have left San Luis. Business men and their families remain with no other interest than that of gaining wealth, and it does seem as if missionaries ought to stand by their people who are true to them and beg them to remain. I feel that what has been done in America has been done in the interest of the missionaries here, but at the same time I feel that I would give my life, if need be, to remain at this critical period. I have insisted upon the other young women leaving, but they have decided to remain. Mexico is my real home, and I love these people."

Julian Hawthorne, the writer and novelist, was released from the Atlanta Federal Prison on Wednesday and immediately took a train for New York. He was accompanied by W. J. AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION.

A Promise of Relief From the Injuries of the Destructive San Jose Scale.

For a number of years the destruction and threats of destruction by this imported pest have hung like a pall over the fruit growing and nursery business of this country, discouraging and thwarting, increasing expense and reducing profits until the very name San Jose scale has become a sort of nightmare to the men who produce fruit for the market. In spite of all that has been done to prevent, this scale has spread steadily, and has now completely occupied about all the best fruit growing territory of the United States. Fruit growers have never had to deal with a pest so difficult to suppress and so generally and constantly destructive to all deciduous tree fruits since fruit growing became a business in America.

A beam of light is thrown on this somewhat gloomy situation by the appearance recently of small insect parasites that bid fair to check the injuries of San Jose scale and to render the work of keeping the orchards and nurseries in good condition much less difficult. These parasites have been reared during the past summer in numbers in the Division of Entomology and Botany of the Kentucky Experiment Station at Lexington. This new friend is a mere yellow speck, hardly recognizable as an insect except by its movements, yet it is a highly organized four-winged fly, belonging to the same group of insects as the honey bee. Its young, a small white grub, lives within the bodies of the scale insect, and numbers of the scales from trees about Lexington, Barbourville, Pineville, and elsewhere in Eastern Kentucky, may be seen to have a round hole in the back through which the mature parasite has emerged. Trees recently thickly covered with scale and apparently doomed, have shown a decided relief from the injury this season as a result of the beneficent work of these small flies.

At the request of the Illinois State Entomologist a package of the parasites has just been sent to that State with a view to establishing the parasite there. Eventually it is hoped that it can be made to occupy all of the region invaded by the scale.

Several other enemies of the scale are under observation at the Station, one of them, the grub of a small, black lady beetle, having done on some trees as good work in reducing the scale as its minute associate. An effort will be made later to distribute these insects to sections of the State where they are not now present.

Entomologist and Botanist, Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

COD LIVER OIL AND IRON

Two Most World-Famed Tonics Combined in Vinol.

Cod Liver oil and Iron have proved to be the two most successful tonics the world has ever known—Iron for the blood and the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil as a strength and tissue builder for body and nerves, and for the successful treatment of throat and lung troubles. Two eminent French chemists discovered a method of separating the curative medicinal elements of the cods' livers from the oil or grease which is thrown away, but to these medicinal elements tonic iron is now added, thus combining in Vinol the two most world famed tonics.

As a body-builder and strength creator for weak, run-down people, for feeble old people, delicate children, to restore strength after sickness; and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis or pulmonary troubles we ask you to try Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

P. S. For pimples and blotches try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

NEWEST IDEA IN EDUCATION

Alabama School, Now Six Years Old, Chiefly Remarkable for What It Does Not Do.

Down in the little town of Fairhope, in southern Alabama, there is a new kind of public school, says the American Magazine. It is known as the School of Organic Education. During this, its sixth year, it numbers 150 pupils, two-thirds of the entire population. Upon first inspection the school is mainly remarkable for getting along without certain things which schools generally deem indispensable. During the first six years there are no promotions, no grades, no examinations, no marks either for conduct or for lessons, no home work and no requirements of any kind.

The principal, founder and moving spirit of the school is Mrs. Marietta L. Johnson. Mrs. Johnson explains the singular program, or lack of program, by stating that she is growing boys and girls as a farmer grows corn. A farmer collects all the available lore concerning corn growing and supplies what he believes to be the best conditions for growth. If the corn does not grow he does not blame it, nor scold it, nor give it a bad mark, nor call it stupid, but hastens to change conditions until his corn responds.

PUT MEN IN SECOND PLACE

Sociologist Found That the Girls Had a More Important Subject for Their Attention.

Five girls were waiting to board an eastbound car. Two men who had been discussing sociology in the usual impracticable manner saw them through a car window, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Here's a chance for an illustration," said one of the men hastily. "The first subject that engrosses the minds of those five girls will be dress."

"It will be men," said the other man. In came the girls. It was a side-seat car and they sat together.

"Mary got a lovely waist at the sale," said the first one.

"Did she?" said the second. "I couldn't afford anything after I got my silk skirt."

"Ain't it awful about the slashes?" giggled the third.

"How are you going to have your summer suit made up?" queried the fourth.

"I seen Charlie yesterday," said the fifth.

The second sociologist nudged the first one.

"I lose," he muttered. "Man isn't in the same class."

"Why have you saved these Christmas cigars so long?"

"Mother wants them to sprinkle among the clothes. She says they are better than camphor for keeping away moths."

Sanguine Beginner—First rate. Just made three perfect putts on the last green.—London Punch.

ONE ACCOMPLISHMENT.

CORRECTION.

"Is your Jagsby really worth a million?"

"No. He has a million, but he isn't worth a cent."

The Country Weekly.

About every so often some pessimistic journalist, whose horizon is not much larger than that of a five-quart tin milk pan, arises in a press association convention and solemnly declares that the day of the country weekly has passed and that it is only a question of a few years when the last of them will be obliged to suspend publication.

As proof of this startling, although not new, statement he will call attention to the rapid growth of the big city dailies, whose circulation, he asserts, are supplanting those of the village weekly. Their facilities for gathering the news are so much greater, their choice of material is so much more comprehensive and they can give such greater value for the money that the country weekly has not the ghost of a show to long survive the competition that they are bound to encounter.

Such talk as this is the veriest nonsense and clearly indicate the gross ignorance of the speaker. As a matter of fact the weekly press of America never stood on such firm ground as it does today, and was never so prosperous. Numerically considered, the weeklies exceed all other publications. According to Ayers Dictory the total of all issues last year was 24,381, of which 17,285 were weeklies. After deducting all classes, technical, social, scientific, literary, religious and other papers, we have left about 10,000 weeklies that are printed in the small cities and towns of the country.

The only country weeklies that are being driven out of business are those that are wanting in news value, are have been so badly managed that their failure was inevitable.

No daily paper, however well edited, can take the place of the small town weekly, if the publisher knows his business. The latter has a hold on the hearts and lives of the people that cannot be loosened by any outside newspaper, daily or otherwise. It's the personal friend of every man, woman and child in the community. It furnishes the first reading lesson for the toddler who has just learned the alphabet. In its columns are recorded the child's progress through school, his departure for college and the record he made while there, his marriage and his business career in the distant city. It tells of the tragedies and comedies in the lives of those who are neighbors and acquaintances. It gives the gossip of the hour and the news of the day, and discusses subjects that are of interest to all who scan its pages. Its editor is a sort of father confessor to everybody.

With these facts in mind do you think the time is ever coming when the country weekly is going to be displaced by any outside publication? Not in a thousand years. Daily newspapers are going to be read more and more by the people of the dailies' towns and their circulation is going to increase correspondingly, but the paper that will ever retain the affections and honest love of those who reside in them is the country weekly, with its budget of home news about neighbors and friends whose daily lives touch each other at many points.

Tango is Said To Be Sunday School Step in Comparison.

Filled with a deep sense of gratitude toward America, which has given us the "Turkey Trot," the "Grizzly Hug" and the "Tango," a French composer has invented a new original dance, "La Tremoutarde," which is all the rage here.

Everybody is "Tremoutarding" in Paris now in Fauborg Saint Germain, as well as at "Bal Tabarin," "Chez l'Abbey," "Ches Maxims," and in all the dance halls of Montmartre and Quartier Latin.

The inventor and composer of the dance having left Paris for parts unknown to escape the interviewers, philologists are quarreling about the origin of the name of the dance. Jean Richopin, who is soon to address the venerable members of the Academy on the Tango, and who will on that occasion discuss the "Tremoutarde," is convinced that the name was derived from the verb, "tremousser" (to hop and skip about), or "se tremousser" (to flap your wings), but other persons almost equally famous insist that "tremoutarde" is an abbreviation of "tres moutarde" (much mustard), and I am too sensible to take any side.

One of the advantages of the "Tremoutarde," is its simplicity. You lay your arm about the waist of your partner and together you sway your torsos back and forth for several moments before you begin revolving, moving your hips and elbows up and down in time to the music, while your knees remain rigid. The music grows faster and faster, the dancers avoiding the center of the floor, rolling along the walls until exhausted.

We are all anxious to hear how America will like our return gift. —Paris Correspondent Enquirer.

In quarterly court there was an interesting suit over a steer between Joe Hisle and D. L. Day. The steer was claimed by both parties and was said to have both brands on it. It was claimed by Mr. Hisle that the steer had been sold by Day to John Stofer, and he sued for the value of the steer and damages and was awarded $65 for the value of the steer and $15 damages. It is said that Day will appeal the case.
